Breech Loading Riger for the Army. -"Caveto" writes: --If her Mniesty's Board of Ordinance, which is supposed to teach the Board of Admiralty how shoot with all weapons gave dand bad commenced five years ago to convert niverle-loading muskers into breech loading rifles, and bad tochawed the fully, to call it by the mildest term, of allowing Armstrong to blunder on for so long a period in the vain attempt to make breech leading. great guns, the nocket of the nation would have been more weighty and its reputation to Europe brighter than it is at it is writing. Gen. Po I was bitten by Armetrang; Sidney Herhert and Cornewall Lewis died unbelievers in breech loading 6 n their faith in Armstrong's delusionens to breechthe great consternation of the clique of jobbers by whom he is surrounded, and to this very great credit the fiat has gone forth for the selection of the best breech landing rifle for the army. Inclined na I am to light this as a move in the right direcion. I vet confess my fears that the soundhess of the principle may be unset by the rollenness of its A details. The subject is one to which I have said close attention, and I shall venture to point out a few of the requirements of the wespon. Firstly, then, the widest possible distinction should drawn between a military and a sporting weamon: vet I know that those gentlemen who are appointed to be judges of smallerm performances con- ling a frontage of Eighty three feet on Wollington flow mistaken would it be to relect a piece, how- nine feet on Aberdeen Street, comprising a suever brilliant its shooting, the cartridge of which perfecial area if about 1900 isquare feet? should have its own speciality, impossible to be constructed by ordinary hands or made on an emergency. If it were possible to select an community to propose a solf-igniting cartridge. Road, and well suited for an Auctioneer's business. propose at the Horse Guards a highly-peop ered gunpowdered Germansan ange to serve two combines ed purposes of ammunition and food. I verily bethat the self-igniting partridge presents many disadvantages, and I am not aware of any equivalent advantage which it posses es. In the late trial of muskets at Woolwich a breech-loader, wi h the self-igniting cartridge, was benten by a capped breech-loader in quickness of five ; but as on that occasion the capped breech-loaders fired 100 number of shots and at this rate of firing it was found impossible to go on, the rifles were so intensoly heated, it follows that greater celerity would be impossible. Even in repelling a charge of capalry or a charge of infantry, the rush of a breech, the firing upon guns in position in order to destroy their artillerymen, no force would he likely to fire 100 rounds in ten or twelve minutes and it is doubtful who-ther the effect, of that fire would not lie more deadly if fifteen minutes were allower instead 40,000 and 60,000 piouls enpacity. of ten or twelve. One thing is certain, instead of pausing to let the rifle cool you would be enabled to so on the recond hundred rounds in a much ting partridges. but when one reflects that the its muzzle loading powers retained for an emerfety the mechanical contrivance must be easy ofmanipulation; and devoid, as for as practicable, of hinges, springs, or other appliances liable to derangement.
